the use of steam.

To the Women of Richmond. I cannot let this opportunity pass without making an earnest request that we follow the sige counsel of St. Paul: "Women should be stayers-at-home." There is her sphere. Let her go outside of home, she steps down, if I may so express it-she dethrones berself.

Where can there be a more honorable position for woman than, as wife and mother, training souls for eternity? There the faithful, praying woman reigns in the hearts of her own. We have noble, Christian men in all the professions and vocations of life whose place it is to lead in prayer and praise V. W. M. in public. [We hope this note will end the discussion of this subject.] Boston, June 20, 1875.

This ode was sung by the Masonic choir with great effect at the magnificent banquet given at the American House by the De Molays to the Richmond Commandery. I think it is worthy of reproduction in the columns T. C. M. of the Dispatch.

Ode of Welcome.

Hark, hark, from Old Virgluia's shore the Tempears' trumpet's pealing, The clouds of war have pass'd away, the red-cros flag revealing.

Northward now the Richmond, Knights with eager eyes are turning.

Where freedom's fices of seven-six o'er Warren's tomb are burning.

The southern breeze brings to our ears sounds of a And welcome shines from every eye, with joy each heart is dancing.

From Berkshire hills to Boston bay we give them corolad greeting:

May pleasure twine her golden cord around the Templars' meeting. Fill brimtel up the wassait cup, we'll drink a deep libation.
And weld the bonds forever now of a united na-Flil brimful up the wassail cup, we'll drink a deep

And weld the bonds forever now of a united na-Our union 'n ath the Templars' flig no trial aught sasli sever. Till from above the Master's voice shall call us home forever.

BY JOHN JAMIESON, M. D.

All Nature glowing in the health of Earth, The streams all laughing 'mid the summer shower. The birds all chirping at the nestling birth, Pour cheering notes of sonz from every bower.

Up from the eastern depths of space the Sun, An oval monat of highty heat and light, Salutes the world! whilst swift before him run To western lands the shadows of the night.

And thou, fair Moon, country generate contain.
The sea of motion and the bird of song,
Mark not the bin-hing moid, nor circling arm
Of lover, rolling radiantly along. Nor those, not Venus, goddess of the East, and thind thy splendor from the realms of space, Thy grace is Queen of the celestial feast, And mortals sigh at Heaven writ in thy face!

The warm Farth teeming with the life of plants, The airl filled with the insects' gentle swell.
The wild dear dozing in their shadiest haunts,
All mark the land where youth and beauty dwell!

"Chester" writes from Richmond to the Petersburg News: The recent little trouble between some of the doctors of Richmond has set to work the muse of one of my friends with the following

A PATIENT'S ADVICE TO THE ANGRY DOCTORS. When doctors' anery passions rise, And blows and harsh words have followed, We! may their patients show surprise, Whese pitts they all have swallowed.

Whether it requires us to relinquish lucrative situations, to abstain from favorite indulgences, to control intemperate passions, or undergo tedious regimens-whatever difficulty it lays us under, a man who pursues his bap-piness rationally and resolutely will be content to submit to. HABIT.-I trust everything under God to habit, upon which, in all ages, the law giver as well as the schoolmaster has mainly placed his reliance. Habit makes everything easy and casts all difficulties upon the devia-tion from a wonted course. Make sobriety a habit and intemperance will be hateful; make prudence a habit, and reckless profli-gacy will be avoided. Give a child a habit of sacredly regarding the truth, of carefully respecting the property of others, of scrupulously abstaining from all acts of improvidence which can involve bim in distress, and he will just as likely think of rushing into an element in which he cannot breathe atone. as of lying, cheating, and stealing .- Lord It is said to be a fact that some very
